A Brief History of Ranching in Southern Alberta

Ranching and Grazing Commission Sits in Gleichen To-day

In view of the ranching and Grazing Commission meeting in Gleichen today, the following short history written specially for the CALL will be read with interest:—

In 1874 the Northwest Mounted Police arrived in this country. On arriving at the Cypress Hills, and from thence west, they were continually passing large herds of buffalo. So numerous were these animals that they had much difficulty, especially in the vicinity of water to obtain grass for horses. To the inexperienced eye this grass did not appear to possess much value, but on viewing the condition of the buffalo they killed for food they had to alter their opinion.

While the bulk of the buffalo migrated south in the fall and early winter many remained and their condition in the spring proved that the grass was able to retain its nutritive during the winter. This led them to believe that cattle might succeed under the same circumstances, a belief that was strengthened by the fact that in Montana, a similar country, ranching had made some progress, consequently some of the first time-expired men of the police who had the means purchased small herds of cattle in Montana and drove them into this country.

Police were Pioneer Ranchmen

Their success for the first couple of years proved that this was an excellent stock country, but they quickly learned that though cattle could winter on the prairie grass, it did pay for several reasons to depend entirely on it. They found the cattle, if not occasionally fed during the winter would wander off, and it paid to have the cows close at home especially in the spring, during the calving time, so that they could be placed under rough shelter during the spring storms. Neglect of this might mean some years the loss of over fifty per cent of the calves drop as well as a serious loss in the cows also.

With this end in view the early ranchers fenced and plowed the land they required to grow feed, almost entirely oats. Some threshed and disposed of the grain to the police and freighters, finding that straw alone was sufficient to winter stock.

The early rancher was essentially a mixed farmer, and those engaged in that business, no matter how small their start quickly achieved success and were looking forward to become prosperous. Most of the police were saving their pay, intending to engage in the business when their time expired. Some young men were induced to come out from Ireland. They were more than pleased with their success. Some of them visited that country and spread the good news as they had perfect faith in the future of this country.

Indians Face Starvation

The first setback came in 1879. Up to that period there were sufficient buffalo to provide the Indians with what meat they required, but there had been such immense slaughtering of buffalo a few years previous for their hides that in that year, bu-falo may be said to have disappeared from Canada. This meant absolute starvation for the Indians. During the summer of that year they tried to exist on gophers and badgers and such roots and berries as they could find, and for a time did not molest the white man's cattle, being buoyed by the hope held out to them by Mr. Dewdney, the Indian commissioner that the government was taking steps to provide food for them. They were also no doubt influenced by fear of the police, for whom they had the greatest respect. But hunger at last drove them to killing cattle—few at first. Complaints would be made to the police but they were helpless. They had no means of detecting the culprits, and even if they had it might have been unwise to have taken any action, as there were several thousand Indians in the country, well armed, and if driven to desperation the result might have been disastrous.

Indians Slaughter Cattle

As the Indians found they could kill cattle with impunity their awe of the police began to decrease and their depredations correspondingly increased. This naturally alarmed the settlers, and a number of them interviewed Mr. Dewdney and requested him to purchase sufficient of their cattle to feed the Indians until the promised supplies arrived. This he refused to do, and his refusal probably changed the history of Southern Alberta. The ranchers collected what cattle they had left, and those who found they had sufficient to justify starting in another country drove them to Montana and all, with the exception of Mr. Mossell became permanent residents of that country. On counting the cattle it was found that the Indians had killed over fifty per cent in six weeks. This ended the first attempt to settle Southern Alberta, and for at least two years no further effort was made.

Business Resumed Again

In the year 1881 it was seen that the Indians were settled on their reserves and were provided for by the government, consequently the settlers brought their cattle back from Montana and commenced where they had left off. They took up correspondence with many friends in the old country and endeavored to induce them to come out. By the time they had induced a few to come out to the country, so far as settlement was concerned, another and more permanent setback was received, this time by the deliberate action of the government.

The usual weekly round of the elevators was made by the CALL reporter and he found the men busy about their various callings.

At the Alberta Pacific the manager reported receipts during the week of some 6,200 bushels of wheat comprising 3700 bushels of No. 2 and 2500 bushels of No. 3 Northern. He had also taken 2400 bushels of Extra Feed Oats and 1000 bushels of barley. He had shipped 4 cars of No. 2 Northern comprising some 5000 bushels, and 1 car of oats. Asked about cars he said they had been short the last two or three days but hoped for better facilities in the near future.

At the Imperial the manager stated his receipts were 5000 bushels of wheat and 5000 bushels of oats during the week. His bins were nearly all full, the only thing he had room for being one car of No. 2 wheat. His shipments during the week comprised 4 cars of wheat and 2 cars of oats being about the same amount he had received.

Asked about cars he said the situation showed little or no improvement.

At the Sunny Belt it was found that the scales had been broken, and the elevator had been idle for the past week and no grain had been taken in or shipped, however, the elevator was now ready for business and had room for considerable grain. On enquiry it was found that 5 cars had been shipped from the loading platform comprising 1 car of flax amounting to 1400 bushels, 1 car of oats 2400 bushels and 3 cars of wheat or 4000 bushels making the entire week's shipments

The Bachelors' Dance

The second annual ball of the Bachelors of Gleichen took place on the evening of Friday, Nov. 15th. It was largely attended and proved a great success.

Keen anticipation had been kindled by memories and accounts of a former occasion when the Bachelors were "At Home", so that on the eventual night, all who had been honored with an invitation, and could possibly attend wended their way to the Gleichen Opera House.

Here they found that Soc'y Thos. Irvine and his staff of assistants had everything prepared for their reception. The decorations were in green and gold, and color scheme was completely carried out; wreaths of bunting, green shields with a golden "B" and the dance programs and menu cards printed in these colors, gave an effect that was attractive and unique as well.

The stage, set as a drawing room served as background for the orchestra, which, under the direction of C. P. Graham discoursed music of the finest, and from the time, the opening chords of "The Druids Prayer" fell upon the ears of the dancers until the last strains of "Till we meet again" died upon the air, neither the ardor of the dancers nor the quality of the music abated.

Many handsome toilettes were in evidence, but we have not space to describe them all, and dare not, among so many handsome members of the fair sex particularize in any way.

A dainty luncheon was served during the evening and tempted all to give up the pleasures of the floor for a brief season.

To sum up the evening was one of unalloyed enjoyment, and the second annual ball of the Bachelors of Gleichen will be long remembered with pleasure by those present.

A full list of the stewards, patronesses and guests will appear in next week's CALL.

Died at Gleichen on Tuesday, November 19th, Clarence Denver Evans, aged 15 years and 4 months.

My wife thought, and I confess I was coward enough to think, that perhaps you might suggest some alleviation, though we have long ago faced the fact that anything more is out of the question.

Dynecourt's hand, that balanced a paper knife between its long shapely fingers, closed suddenly with such force that the frail piece of ivory snapped in two. It was intolerable to him, the wife's hand, the wife's wife. The words jostled and jangled in Dynecourt's brain, and he tossed the broken fragment of paper-knife aside, with a smothered exclamation of annoyance.

So, they had made up their minds, this man and Dorothy, the Dorothy who belonged to him, not to the fellow who called her wife, they had made up their minds that anything more was out of the question? Well, so it was. No one could expect that he should rise to such superhuman heights as to suggest doing what might, what probably would, destroy all his and all Dorothy's happiness for ever. They had only entered into this agreement, because the third party to it had undertaken to end it in a year by his own death. The whole face of affairs would be changed if he lived, instead of dying. If he lived. Pah! Neither God nor man could exact so tremendous a sacrifice from any human being, as would be exacted from him, Dynecourt, supposing he suggested a possible operation.

Only a possible one, after all. Even if he did it, it might not succeed. Ten chances to one it would not succeed, for Sir Miles was scarcely in condition to face a serious operation now, although four months earlier, when he first came to be examined he might have gone through it satisfactorily. But at that date, the operation itself was unknown; the possibility of such a thing had only come to light on that day in the hospital ward, and now—it would almost certainly be too late. There could be little doubt that it would be too late—even if—

I feel ashamed of taking up your time. Sir Miles' musical voice interrupted his thoughts; being merely a derelict, I ought to be content to stay in my place in the harbour until the time comes for my breaking up.

With a start, Dynecourt roused himself from those reveries that were leading him along such devious ways, and his eyes once more met the clear grey eyes fixed on him. They were the eyes of a man who trusted him, who did not for a moment doubt his integrity, and something in that quiet trusting glance pierced Dynecourt's heart with an arrow of remorse.

You mustn't feel you are taking up my time, he said quickly. I wanted to see you in any case, in a few months from the date of our first interview, and I shall be glad to make an examination now, and to see whether—

Whether any alleviation is possible? Hernesley put in briskly. Well! It will be good of you, and it will ease my wife's mind if she feels that we have left no stone unturned, but that everything has been done which can be done.

Those words caught and rivetted Dynecourt. Would it really ease Dorothy's mind to know that no stone had been left unturned, to be sure that everything had been done that could be done?

SCALES, DANDRUFF AND ITCHING

Head so Itchy Could Hardly Stand It. Dandruff Showed on Coat Collar. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in One Month.

223 Elizabeth St., Montreal, Que.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me permanently from dandruff and scalp itch that I was suffering with since over a year. I had an inflammation of the lungs and a very strong fever. When I recovered, my head was covered with scales and dandruff, and it was so itchy I could hardly stand it. The dandruff showed on my coat collar. I had used various medicines without relief. I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and I am very glad to say, because I am perfectly cured. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap. It took one month to cure me. I take pleasure in recommending Cuticura Soap and Ointment to anyone who is suffering with scalp or skin diseases." (Signed) Hector Perre, Dec. 30, 1911.

But everything was not going to be done that could be done. Had he not just been arguing with himself that—it was too late to suggest operation, too late—to give to this man with the steadfast eyes—one more chance of life?

But Dorothy? Dorothy's mind would be eased if—something were done—were done to—

Again those wandering thoughts of his were jerked back from their wanderings by Miles' quiet voice. You are trying to find words to tell me that no alleviation is ever possible; don't try to pick or choose your words. I say now, as I said the first time we met: Be honest with me, tell me the brutal undiluted truth—I would rather know the worst.

Dorothy's mind would be eased if no stone were left unturned that could help her husband, and there was a stone, a big stone, that could be turned, with a fair chance of success, and he, Oliver Dynecourt who had always prided himself upon his honor and uprightness, was proposing to leave the stone untouched.

I should never mince words with you, Sir Miles, he heard his own voice saying, whilst out of a fog that seemed to be at the back of his brain another voice cried—

If you do not put the truth, the whole truth before him, you are a murderer, nothing more nor less than a murderer. You could never look Dorothy in the face again, if you do not do everything that can be done.

A shudder ran through him. In his fancy he could see himself standing on the brink of a precipice, over which one of his feet already hung in mid-air, whilst the echoing voices of all the good influences in his life held him back from the bottomless abyss. You are looking fagged now, but you have been through a good deal in the past few weeks, and all the worry and anxiety have told on you, his voice sounded to himself mechanically, like an automaton wound up to speak, but he felt impelled to go on.

Yes, I seem to myself to have gone downhill rather quickly, more quickly than I expected to do, Miles answered, but I put it down to this extra strain on my nerves and mind, because after all, he laughed a little, to be accused of murder gives one a horrid shock.

Yes, to be accused of murder gives one a horrid shock, Dynecourt repeated, not noting vaguely that his patient looked surprised at the repetition, but the words ran on in his brain, and he found himself saying again—

To be accused of murder must be terrible.

Terrible—even when one is innocent. If one were guilty—Sir Miles stopped short, with a significance that emphasized the broken sentence.

Yes, if one were guilty, Dynecourt repeated monotonously, and in his brain the words swung to and fro, to and fro.

If one were guilty—if one were guilty, unless I tell him the whole truth, all the possibilities, there will be murder on my soul.

But I have not come here to waste your time over abstract discussions, Miles said solemnly; it is curious he should have died in the very room where Triton lay dead. It was into that room that Miss Dyson saw him peering when she went to put flowers into Triton's hands. There can be little or no doubt that it was Soames she saw.

It seems a sort of irony of fate that he should have gone back there to die, said Dynecourt.

Or—an act of God, the other answered gravely.

An act of God, the surgeon echoed, conscience plays queer tricks with men, unless—they can silence it effectively.

And when a man effectually silences conscience you may as well give him up for lost, said Hernesley; there is a reasonable chance for the people who will still listen to something better than their own instincts or desires.

A Still Greater

Said a local alderman to his son: Look here, look at me! I began life at the bottom of the ladder, and here I am now at the top. And what is my reward? Why, when I die my son will be the greatest reprobate in the town.

To this the young hopeful replied. Yes, dad, but not 'till then.

Water Really Necessary

Flannery suffers from basifluency, and if there is a more distressing complaint, we haven't met it. He had just changed his lodgings, too, and a such periods as every basifluous man knows, the suffering becomes acute. He avoided everyone as much as possible at first, but at last he did muster up courage enough to timidly knock at his landlady's door at about eleven o'clock one night and ask for a glass of water.

It was handed to him with a smile and the smile must have given him confidence, for in less than a minute he was back again.

May I ask for another glass of water? he said. And the landlady, replying that he might, gave it to him. Another minute, and then another knock and a request for a ewer of water this time. The landlady was puzzled; he must be cleaning or washing something, she concluded. Well, it was no business of hers, so long as he did not spoil the furniture.

R-r-r-r-r!

May I have another pail of water, please? queried that basifluous voice from the door again.

Of course, Mr. Flannery! said she. You may have as much water as you please; but I told you when you came there was no bathroom here, and if you want to swim—

Oh, it isn't that! stammered Flannery.

Er—er, you see—er—my room's on fire!

Exclusive Costume

The costumer came forward to attend to the nervous old beau who was mopping his bald and shining poll with a big silk handkerchief.

And what can I do for you? he asked.

I want a little help in the way of a costume, said the old fellow. I intend going to the French students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I may be sure no one else will wear. What would you suggest?

The costumer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on the gleaming knob.

Well, I'll tell you, he said thoughtfully.

Why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?

A murderer named James Schrum, who some months ago killed two men at Iron Mountain, Missouri, was sentenced to ninety-nine years' imprisonment for the first crime, and was condemned to be hanged for the second. His counsel contends that the ninety-nine years' sentence, having been first imposed, must be served first, and he has appealed to the Supreme Court to confirm his views.

Ma, how did you come to pick out pa for your husband?

I didn't pick him out, my dear, I just drew him out of the matrimonial grab bag.

Jenkins' Brain

When they spoke of Henry Jenkins all the village people said, "His inventions prove for certain he's got big things in his head," for the scores of weird contraptions it was Jenkins' joy to build somewhat took their rustic fancies, and their hearts with worship filled. First of all he built an airship that did everything but fly, though he sold a dozen tickets—first return from earth to sky. Then he made a sleep producer, which was guaranteed to bring soothing slumber to the user. Henry swanked like anything that insomnia was conquered, and he took it as a joke when the only chap who tried it went to sleep and never awoke.

Undeterred, an Odour Killer was his next assault on fame; this would soften motor fragrance, hush the hum of month hung game; but a public demonstration brought disaster in its train, for the O.K. found its master in a ripe and rampant drain, and the blithe and buoyant Jenkins suffered typhoid for a spell, though it failed to stop him thinking—he would do that, ill or well.

Now, he cried, when convalescent—now the world shall hail H.J. as the brainiest of mortals that has ever seen the light of day! With my automatic bagpipes music-lovers I'll enthrall; to-night by stealth I'll place them 'neath MacPherson's garden wall. What joy will seize him when he hears the airs he loves the best! What visions of sweet banks and braes shall punctuate his rest!

At midnight came a doleful sound from Mac's potato patch. It's cats! he growled. Awa, ye fiends, and other things to match. Bang! bang. A big revolver belched at Jenkins chunks of lead, and locals then remarked with truth, He'd big things in his head!

Advantages and Saving by Using The Loading Platform

In the writing we desire to put before our Western Farmers the saving and advantage of loading grain direct on cars. Shipping grain through an elevator, it matters not whether a Government elevator or one run by an elevator company or individual owner, does not add the least fraction of a cent to the value of the grain, nor does it give the farmer any better chance of marketing it to advantage than when loaded direct on cars. But loading direct on cars cuts out in the first place the elevator charge, which is usually 1 1/2 c. per bushel, say $17.50 on a thousand bushel car. The elevator dockage is also saved; this may be worth more, or less, depending partly on how dirty the grain is, but mostly on the farmer's ability in holding his own with the elevator man taking it in. On the average the dockage may be considered worth 3c per bushel to the farmer, or say $30 per car of 1,000 bushels. When grain is loaded direct into car over the Loading Platform, the farmer knows for sure that it is his very own grain that will be graded by the inspector, and that he will without doubt receive the full and exact outturn of his car at whichever terminal elevator it is unloaded; for all grain is unloaded from the cars under government superintendence and weighed by properly qualified government weighmen under the rules and supervision of the Dominion Government Board of Grain Commissioners.

Of course, it makes no difference in our loading of the farmers' grain whether it has been shipped through an elevator or over the Loading Platform, but it can easily be seen from what we have stated above where the farmer's advantage lies, when it saves him around $50 or more on every car he ships.

We continue to act as the farmers' agent in looking after and disposing of carlot shipments of wheat, oats, barley and flax directly on a commission of 1 cent per bushel. We are not connected with, nor interested in any elevator companies or elevators, either local or terminal; neither are we truck buyers, in fact we never buy farmers' grain on our own account, but only to handle and dispose of the grain entrusted to us as the agents of those who employ us. Many years' experience, with a wide connection and ample facilities for engaging in this special branch of the grain trade, have given us a reputation of the highest character in it. We make liberal advances on car bills of lading. Write us for shipping instructions and market information. We give as references to our reliability, efficiency and financial standing any city or country Bank Manager in Western Canada.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD

Makes Cows Give More Rich Milk.

International Stock Food conquered England, just as it conquered Canada and the United States, by proving to the Dairy Experts that it is the greatest milk producer and health restorer in the world. The test was made on three cows from the dairy herd of S. W. Hackney, Esq., Leeds, England, Chairman of the Yorkshire Federation of Dairy Farmers. Quantity and quality of milk was tested for a certain time on "International Stock Food" was added to the regular feed. INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD showed an increase in Milk of 14.2 pints daily, and 1.21 pounds of butter daily. This proves that International Stock Food, added to the regular feed will increase the quantity and improve the quality of milk from every cow. It shows that International Stock Food aids digestion and keeps cows in better condition. It proves that International Stock Food is a milk-maker for the farmer—that every farmer who owns one, or a hundred, cows should feed International Stock Food every day. ANOTHER GLEICHEN BOOSTER

C. A. Peabody writes the CALL from St. Joseph, Ill. under date of the 15th. "Please send me your paper for $1.50. I just returned from Gleichen and Calgary, arriving home on the 13th. I intended to go into your office and subscribe for your paper but got busy and overlooked it. I have 160 acres six miles north of Gleichen and was there to see what the prospects were. I was in Gleichen two years ago and when I got of the train the other day I did not know the town. It certainly has grown. Hurrah! for Gleichen!"

When one finds he is out of sympathy with his town, and can only say a good word for it coupled with an apology, he ought to get out. Many people fall into a sort of unconscious habit of growling. But it's a miserable habit. Such people make of themselves a dead weight, while of course, they imagine themselves particularly independent. The individual has about all he can do to get along under his own loads, and he wants help and encouragement from those going his way, and who are identified with him in interest. So with the town. It has its interests to care for, and it needs all the pluck, all the energy all the co-operation and helpfulness its citizens can provide and bring to bear. Every man is a part of his town. The town embraces the fortunes, and in some measures at least takes on the characters of the man. So loyalty to one's town is no more than loyalty to one's self; and this loyalty is in line of all well shaped human nature. Therefore it is right to say that the man who does not stand up for his town is in some way dwarfed. There is something wrong about him. His fellows will pass this judgement upon him, and while the chances are that while he may add to the discomfort of others he will not escape making himself unhappy.

A PRETTY WEDDING

A pretty wedding took place at Namaka, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Stevens when Miss Julia Ann Stevens and Mr. Robert Aubrey Coates, both of Namaka were joined in holy matrimony. The groom was attended by his brother Stanley R. Coates of Shepard, while the bride was assisted by her sister Miss Emma Stevens. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. L. Dougan in the presence of the near relatives of the contracting parties.

There never was a preacher, poet or politician who could please everybody. There never was a tinker or tailor, soldier or sailor who could suit us all. Show us a doctor or a merchant who pleases the whole multitude. The Lord himself and all the angels in heaven have never half succeeded in comforting the human race. There is not a thing on earth or anywhere else that meets the approval of all mankind. Then it would be nonsense for editor or correspondents to fret when their honest efforts fail to please a certain few. Write with sound judgement, an honest purpose and a decent pen, and the majority of sensible people will rise up and call you blessed.

A Shooting Story
The recent book published by the Crown Prince of Germany in which he describes how he shot his first tiger, recalls a story told in Ceylon of how he shot his first elephant.

The official version of the incident is, of course, simply that he went elephant hunting and shot an elephant. The unofficial version is much more interesting.

Just before the Crown Prince went out hunting an elephant died, and the authorities, thinking it a pity to waste a whole perfectly good elephant propped it up where the Crown Prince was sure to come across it, and—well, there you are!

His Imperial Highness shot an elephant!

CRIPPLED WITH SORE BACK

KIDNEYS WERE BADLY DISEASED AND SHE DIDN'T KNOW IT

Was completely Cured by Less Than Three Boxes of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Women are very often deceived and mistaken in regard to kidney disease. The pains in the back are attributed to other derangements, and kidney disease is allowed to run on and on until beyond the reach of medical science.

There is no needless suffering, and life itself is at stake, because backache is not recognized as the most marked symptom of kidney disease.

There is no treatment which so quickly relieves and cures kidney pains in the back as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. As proof of this read Mrs. Richard Patterson's letter:

Mrs. Richard Patterson, Haldimand, Gaspe Co., Que., writes: "I will gladly say that I was cured of kidney trouble by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. When I began using this medicine I was crippled with sore back and did not know what was the trouble. I am looking over Dr. Chase's Almanac I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and decided to try them."

"I had not used two boxes before my back was all right, and before I had completed the third box was entirely cured. There has been no return of the old kidney trouble, and I therefore believe the cure to be permanent."

One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers or J. H. Mansson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BEWARE OF BLOOD-POISON

Zam-Buk Is A Sure Cure

Mr. Jas. Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—"A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk."

"I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the first finger of my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days I was greatly alarmed; as my whole hand and arm to the elbow became suddenly inflamed, and the finger was much discolored, showing signs of blood-poisoning. The pain was dreadful and I was forced to leave off my work and go home."

The wound on the knuckle had been poisoned by dust and dirt getting into it. I then decided to start the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly, and by next day there was a great improvement.

"In a week's time, through perseverance with this wonderful preparation, a complete cure was brought about."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. It draws all poisonous foulness from a wound or sore and then heals. Use it, too, for cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction with the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent, too, for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet. Post free upon receipt of price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

COFFERS
Often Make the Staunchest Converts

The man who scoffs at an idea or doctrine which he does not fully understand has at least the courage to show where he stands.

The gospel of Health has many converts who formerly laughed at the idea that tea, and coffee, for example, ever hurt anyone. Upon looking into the matter seriously, often at the suggestion of a friend such persons have found that Postum and a friend's advice have won their salvation.

"My sister was employed in an eastern city where she had to do calculating," writes a Western girl. "She suffered with headache until she was almost unfit for duty."

"Her landlady persuaded her to quit coffee and use Postum and in a few days she was entirely free from headache." (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee). "She told her employer about it, and on trying it, he had the same experience."

"My father and I have both suffered much from nervous headache since I can remember, but we scoffed at the idea advanced by my sister, that coffee was the cause of our trouble."

"However, we finally quit coffee and began using Postum. Father has had but one headache now in four years, due to a severe cold, and I have lost my headaches and sour stomach which I am now convinced came from coffee."

"A cup of good, hot Postum is satisfying to me when I do not care to eat a meal. Circumstances caused me to locate in a new country and I feared I would not be able to get my favorite drink, Postum, but I was relieved to find that a full supply is kept here with a heavy demand for it."

A Maori Horse Day

A smart bit of business was recently done by one of the Maoris of New Zealand. The owner of a racehorse called Firefly had the misfortune to lose the horse after a very short illness. It had not been dead very long before a Maori came along and offered to purchase the carcass for $5, which the owner very willingly accepted. The Maori then got horses and tackle and removed the dead horse into his own paddock.

The next move was to make some tickets as rapidly as possible. This done he proceeded to canvass his mates, and sold as many tickets as possible at $5 each, telling them he had bought the well-known racehorse Firefly, and was going to raffle it so he was not long in disposing of thirty of his home-made tickets.

That evening the raffle came off, and the lucky man was so excited that he insisted on seeing his prize at once. The Maori told him the horse was in the adjoining paddock, and the winner set out, only to return immediately, with the news that the horse was dead.

No fear, said the Maori, I see him go gallop, gallop round the paddock; he only sleep. You go back and look.

The other shook his head but went. Soon he was back with the same tale. He dead all right. Me kick him, he no get up.

His mate opened his eyes very wide and said, me go down with you. So off they both went, and needless to say, only to find the horse dead.

By Gorry! he dead all right, said the Maori, scratching his head. I tell you what, mate, I give you your $5 back.

The other gladly accepted and everybody else thought it was a very fair way of doing business, and went away contented, while the Maori pocketed his $145 with a serene smile.

Worse

This story was told recently at one of the Service clubs. One or two young subs were dining together at a restaurant one night, and the conversation became a discussion on lies and lying generally, and finally there was a warm debate as to who was the biggest liar known to them.

An old gentleman sitting at a table near was unable to avoid overhearing the discussion, and after a few minutes he rose and came over to their table.

I have just heard you decide, gentlemen, he said gravely, that Lieutenant Arthur Brink is the biggest liar you have ever met. I am his father.

After a few seconds' embarrassed silence, one of the young officers began to stammer apologies, but the old man waved them aside.

No, no, he said don't apologise. It's quite unnecessary. I was only going to say that if you regard my son Arthur as the biggest liar you have met, you cannot possibly have met my other son, Richard!

A Knowing One

Miss Maude Annesley in her new book, "My Parisian Year," tells an excellent story to illustrate the way French restaurant keepers try to do the travelling Englishman.

She once went to a very well known restaurant with an Englishman who had lived nearly all his life in France. He wished to give a dinner for eight. He studied the menu, decided on what he wanted, and then asked the price per head.

Forty-five francs, Monsieur, said the maitre d'hôtel.

Miss Annesley's friend looked steadily at him and remarked: I am French. The maitre d'hôtel pretended to make another addition, then said: Well, Monsieur, we will do it for forty francs!

The other replied calmly: I am still French!

Thirty-five francs then, said the maitre d'hôtel.

I have not changed my nationality, was the retort, and Miss Annesley says that the price finally paid was only twenty-two francs per head.

Cause and Effect

A gentleman living in Wales who was spending a month at Brighton, went to London for a few days' visit. He had his wife and daughter, and plenty of money with him.

The daughter, after buying whatever she wanted, decided that she must have a bulldog. The entire family went to help her to select the dog, but they could not agree in their choice, so the gentleman bought three—the selection of each.

He had the three dogs sent to Brighton, then changed his plans after going back there, and took his family home. A few days later he received the following letter from the stableman at Brighton:

Dear Sir,—Your three bulldogs arrived all right last night on the same train. I locked them up together last night in a loose box.—Yours truly,

J. J. P. S.—We have only one loose box. P. S.—You will have to buy some more dogs.

Pedestrian—What do you feed your horse on? Cabby—Shavings. Pedestrian—Shavings? And does he eat them?

Cabby—Yes. Look at him for a happy horse. I bought him a pair of green spectacles the other day, and blow me if he doesn't think he's eating lettuce!

An egg laid two hundred years ago, and buried ever since in four feet of loam, was served recently to the Chinese General Lan Tien Wei, at a banquet given in his honor at Los Angeles, California.

The difficulty of hitting an aeroplane in full flight is illustrated by the negative result of the tests just carried out by a shore battery at Toulon. The target was a glider, towed along at a height of eight or nine hundred yards by a destroyer travelling twenty-five to thirty knots an hour, the range being about five miles. Shrapnel was used, fifty shots being fired in a quarter of an hour, but the target was not touched. Airmen are thus encouraged in the belief that in time of war their main danger will come, not from the earth, but from their rivals in the air.

The Honorable Mrs. Robert Hamilton, in her biography of her father, the late Lord Wolverhampton, says that in his home his orders were always stern and peremptory; but no one was more surprised than he was when they were obeyed.

One day he detected one of his daughters making a statement in which she rather exaggerated the facts.

You are one of the most inaccurate women the Almighty ever made, he told her.

Well, was the cheerful reply, I am glad to be a masterpiece in some department of creation.

A good story is being told of Mr. John Burns.

How Dare You

A party of four just returning from a theatre called in at a fashionable restaurant. The prim old maid who was the guest of the evening, was charmed with everything—especially the music. While the waiter was standing by the table she asked him to find out the title of the piece the orchestra was playing. The willing waiter promised, but other duties claimed him for a while, and when he returned the lady had completely forgotten her request. When he bent towards her and softly whispered something in her ear she recoiled with horror. Then, recovering from the shock she turned with cold, relentless fury upon the hapless man who waited.

How dare you! she cried; how dare you.

And it took the terrified waiter quite a time to explain why he had merely breathed the title of the piece so softly—"What Can I Do to Make You Love Me?"

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health—Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine."

—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R. F. D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for women's ills known.

A New Idea

I've got a ripping idea for a moving picture film. Something absolutely new and novel.

What is it? asked the excited manager.

WESTERNER CURED OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

A Stubborn Case of This Painful Disease Cured After the Patient Had Suffered for Years by a Few Bottles of SANOL

Slowly but surely it has come to be a recognized fact by both the people of Canada and the medical profession that SANOL is the one remedy that may be relied on in cases of kidney disease, gravel, stones in the bladder, gall-stones, kidney-stones and all diseases and ailments due to the presence of uric acid in the system. This remedy has great numbers of cures to its credit and its makers have received many strong testimonials as to its powers. One of these testimonials was recently received from a gentleman who resides in Winnipeg and who is well-known as a most reputable citizen. This letter reads in part as follows:

"For some years past I had suffered from my kidneys. About 18 months ago I had acute inflammation of these organs, when I was ordered to bed by the medical man attending me. I received considerable relief but after a few months the trouble started again. It was then that I decided to try SANOL, of which I had both read and heard. After taking two bottles I felt very much better and my condition rapidly improved. When I had taken the contents of eight bottles, I felt better than I had done for years for my kidney trouble had entirely left me. It is now a full three months since I finished with the medicine and I am enjoying the best of health."

The audience of the gentleman who wrote the above will be given to any who may inquire. The makers of SANOL are able to give a large number of addresses of people who will give to interested parties testimonials as to the benefits they derived from the use of this remedy.

SANOL is manufactured only by the SANOL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, LTD., 877 Main Street, Winnipeg. It is sold by the makers at $1.50 per bottle.

Gave It Up

Now, Jones, you call yourself great on Biblical history, don't you?

Pretty fair, Smith.

Well, then, what proof have we in the Bible that Pharaoh was a carpenter?

Nonsense, Smith. What yer getting at? Pharaoh was never a carpenter.

Well, then how do you account for him making Joseph a ruler?

For years Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has ranked as the most effective preparation manufactured, and it always maintains its reputation.

Threepence Not Enough

My boy, you have saved my life, a young swell exclaimed, as he tried to wring the water out of his clothes at a well-known seaside resort. Let me reward you.

He thrust his hand into his trousers pocket and brought out a threepenny piece.

There, my boy, this is for you, but don't spend it foolishly.

No sir, I can't take it, sir the boy replied as he pushed his hand into his side. I didn't earn it.

Why you saved my life, boy.

Yes, I know; but it ain't worth threepence!

GROWING GIRLS AND ALL WOMEN

Should Keep Their Blood Supply Rich, Red and Pure.

Or every hand you see women and growing girls in the deadly clutches of anaemia. Slowly but surely a pallor as of death settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their appetite fickle; their steps languid. Daily they are being robbed of all vitality and brightness. The trouble if neglected, becomes more acute until the signs of early consumption become apparent. What women and young girls in this condition need is new, rich, red blood, and there is no other medicine can do the work of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in making this new, good blood. These Pills make girls and women well, and bring back the charm and brightness of perfect, regular health. Here is a bit of proof.

Miss Lillie O'Carroll, Norwood, Ont., says:—"About two years ago my health began to fail. I was weak, run down and had no ambition for anything. I had frequent headaches, would be completely tired out after the least exertion, and had little or no appetite. A doctor who was giving me medicine finally told me he feared I was going into consumption, which, of course made me very much downhearted. As the medicine I was taking was not doing me any good I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall ever feel grateful that I did so. My story may be summed up in the words, 'nine boxes of the Pills fully restored my health, perhaps saved my life, and I am now as strong and healthy as any girl.'"

Every anaemic sufferer can obtain equally good results through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The D. C. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Draotic

I will, she exclaimed—I will not live with you another day.

You'll leave me, will you? he calmly asked.

Yes, I will, she said.

When, this minute?

I wouldn't in I were you.

But I will, and I defy you to stop me!

Oh, I shan't try to stop you, he quietly replied. I will simply report to the police that my wife has mysteriously disappeared. They'll want a description and I will give it.

You wear No. 8 shoes; you have an extra large mouth; your nose turns up at the end; eyes rather on the blint; voice like a—

Wretch, you wouldn't dare do that? she screamed.

I will.

Like a Motor Car

A large German woman held up a long line of people at the money order window in a post office the other day and all because her memory had failed. She wanted to send some money to her son, a sailor on a merchant steamer then in foreign water, but when she presented the application at the window the clerk noticed the address was lacking.

Well, where do you want to send it? he asked. We can't give you the money order unless you know the name of the place.

Yeh, dot, do trouble, she replied. I didn't print his letter, and I can't remember d'r name of der town, but its some place out by China dot sounds like der noise a motor-car make?

The two clerks looked at each other dubiously.

What kind of a noise does a motor-car make? asked the other.

Yeh, dot, it, exclaimed the woman. Honk, honk, dot's de place.

Bill it in Hong Kong, said the clerk and she paid over her money with a sigh of relief.

The Honeymoon Club

The Never Nag Society is New York's latest matrimonial club. Its founders are thirty-four couples who have returned from honeymoons spent in Bermuda, where the brides formulated the following confession-of-faith:

We, the brides of Bermuda, have no use for the new woman who cannot cook or sew. We believe a wife should have her husband's breakfast ready, no matter at what time he is obliged to rise.

We believe we should be dressed neatly by the time he is up, for it is his breakfast time impression of us that he carries all day.

We believe the wife should greet her husband with a kiss when he returns in the evening, and not force him to take the initiative.

We believe the wife should have absolute charge of the household affairs.

We believe that she should keep books accounting for every penny she handles, but should have for her private use any amounts she is able to save from her weekly allowance.

We believe that husbands should be encouraged to bring their bachelor friends to their home—to make the home a club.

The president of the Honeymoon Club, Mrs. Elwood Collas, is the youngest and prettiest of the Bermuda brides. She presides over the weekly meetings of the club.

Not to be Imposed Upon

The organist of a country church, having fallen ill just before a festival at the church, asked a friend of his—an accomplished musician—to play in his stead.

The friend consented, and on the festival day, chose the Hallelujah Chorus, playing full chords where the regular organist only played single notes. The former, of course required far more wind.

Presently, in the middle of the piece the wind gave out. The organist waited a few moments; then finding it did not come on again he went round to the blower, and found him just going home.

Go on blowing, said the organist. Blowing? said the blower. Why, you're finished! Do you think I've been blowing all these years and don't know how many puffs the Hallelujah Chorus takes? You can't get over me.

1912 FARMERS' PRIZE CONTEST

WE held a contest last year in which 36 prizes were offered. This year there will be three times as many prizes (108) and therefore three times as many chances for you to win one of them. You do not have to use a large quantity of cement to win a prize. Many of last year's prize-winners used comparatively little cement.

THE contest is divided into three classes and in only one of these (Class "A") does the amount of cement used in building prize winners. Class "B" is for doing the best concrete work the size makes no difference. Class "C" is for sending in the best and clearest description of how any piece of concrete work was done.

IT COSTS NOTHING TO ENTER—There are absolutely no "strings" to this offer. There is no entry fee or red tape to bother with. You cannot lose, because the improvements you make of concrete in competing for the prizes will be more than worth your cost. We have a book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," that will give you all the information about the use of concrete you can need. It will be sent to you free when you ask us for complete particulars of the Prize Contest. Ask for particulars today. RIOT IN PARLIAMENT

SOME WILD SCENES IN BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS

Premier Asquith's Attempt to Rescind Resolution on Home Rule Bill Causes Scenes of Wild Disorder in Historic Chamber—Unionists Prevent Speeches.

London.—The House of Commons the popular house of the Mother of Parliaments, was the scene of a riot over Premier Asquith's proposal to rescind the action of Monday when the Unionists carried by a majority of 22 Sir Frederick Hanbury's amendment defeating the most important financial feature of the Home Rule Bill.

The Unionists refused to permit the debate and the Speaker was forced to adjourn the session on account of the disorder. This is an extremely rare necessity and the situation is considered a critical one.

When the session began there were packed benches. The Premier's followers gave him a great cheer on his entrance and demonstrated that they were present in force by defeating a motion to adjourn early in the proceedings by a vote of 327 to 218.

The substance of Mr. Asquith's motion was that the Hanbury amendment should be rescinded, notwithstanding anything in the way of orders of the house and that this house, with respect to the Home Rule Bill, shall consider the Bill as of the same status as though Monday's proceedings had not taken place.

The effect of this would be practically to begin again the consideration of the bill at the clause where the Hanbury amendment was offered.

Then the storm came. Sir Frederick Hanbury moved that a decision accepted could not be reversed at the same session.

The only honorable alternative before the Government, he said, are resignation or dissolution. All the respect with which the members of the minority are treated is to have the members of the cabinet sitting opposite them, grinning like apes.

The Government is only a circus led by rebels. The best thing the Unionists can do is to go home and make preparations to resist Home Rule.

Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies attempted to speak. He was on his feet for several minutes. Every sentence was drowned by Unionist shouts and derisive cries for Lloyd George.

He finally took his seat. The Attorney General, Sir Rufus Isaacs, had the same experience. Henry Page Croft, Unionist for Christ Church, shouted:

The name of this Government stinks as dirty as London, referring to various alleged financial scandals.

The Speaker finally adjourned the House for an hour. Immediately it reconvened Sir Rufus Isaacs was on his feet amid shouts of adjourn.

The voice of Sir Edward Carson, who led the anti-Home Rulers in Ulster, arose above the din:

There will be no more business ever in this House, he cried.

The Speaker repeatedly appealed for order and at length declared:

I rule that a scene of grave disorder has arisen and I adjourn the House until tomorrow.

A yell of victory burst from the Unionists. The members of the cabinet clustered on their side of the clerk's table, but no one moved to leave the House.

On the Unionist side was a seething mob. An arm was raised and a document flew across the floor. It struck the Prime Minister on the shoulder.

A shower of order papers fell among the group of ministers.

Mr. Asquith, white and indignant, faced the attack with folded arms. The air was thick with papers and hats.

At length the Prime Minister stalked to the door, greeted with yells of defiance and approval.

Suddenly the Unionist member McNeill, rushed to the clerk's table and seized a heavy volume. He hurled it at the First Lord of the Admiralty Mr. Churchill, whom it struck full in the chest.

There was an ugly rush from the Liberal benches, but the cooler members held back their colleagues.

For a moment a bottle of ink seemed imminent. The peace-making voice of Will Crooks was raised in song, "Should auld Acquaintance be forgot."

Others took up the refrain and gradually flowed into the lobby. At a cabinet meeting held later it was determined to adhere to the program.

C.P.R. Lifts Blockade on C.N.R.
Calgary.—The blockade that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has maintained for the past week on the Canadian Northern grade, 200 miles northwest of Calgary, has been broken. Word was received here that at a conference held in Toronto the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. officials had come to an agreement whereby the latter company may install two railway wooden bridges over the irrigation ditches of the C.P.R. and proceed with the track laying towards Calgary. Obstructions have been removed and the C.N.R. track laying forces have resumed operations.

The mission is under President Brandley, formerly representative of the Swiss Mission, and he will have assisting him business men and farmers of the best ability procurable. The plan is one which has recently been adopted in Utah where it was found to be very successful.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE

Despatches State That Bulgarian and Turkish Envoys Have Been Appointed

Constantinople.—That the Porte has entered into direct negotiations with Bulgaria for an armistice is confirmed.

Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has received instructions to open communications with the Bulgarian generals and he has sent an envoy to the Bulgarian headquarters.

The Porte appears relieved upon the course owing, on the one hand, to the delay of the powers in handling the mediation proposal and on the other hand to the divergence of views the proposal has occasioned among the powers.

The Porte, according to official circles, is unwilling to add to the existing embarrassment of the powers.

It is reported here that only four of the powers agreed to submit mediation proposals, while two, presumably Austria and Germany, abstained from participating.

Under these circumstances, the Porte elected to apply direct to the principal belligerent, Bulgaria, and there is reason to believe that the same course will be adopted in the negotiations for the terms of peace.

SPAIN HONORS DEAD PREMIER
King Alfonso and the Royal Princes Walk Behind the Bier at Funeral

Madrid.—The body of the Spanish Premier, Jose Canalejas Mendes, was entombed in the Spanish Pantheon with the highest national honors. The entire nation is in mourning and all civil life and business was suspended in Madrid until after the ceremony.

King Alfonso, accompanied by Prince Charles of Bourbon-Sicilies and Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria, Infantas of Spain walked behind the bier from the Chamber of Deputies to the Pantheon, while 250,000 persons stood with uncovered heads in tribute to the dead premier. The members of the diplomatic corps and an official from each department attended the funeral.

The press of all shades of opinion condemns the assassination and lauds Senor Canalejas as the finest type of Spaniard who, in addition to being a great statesman had devoted himself to the amelioration of the condition of the poor. The Republican press protests against the assertion that the assassination represented an attempt to avenge the execution of Ferrer.

Manuel Padriñas, the assassin, died, according to the police, without making any statement. The exact motives for the deed therefore remains a mystery.

NAZIM PASHA URGES PEACE
Finally Acknowledged That His Whole Army Is Beaten

London.—Martin Donohoe, the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, telegraphs from Constantinople: The demoralized Turks have recognized the futility of further resistance. Nazim Pasha has informed the Grand Vizier that his army is both unable and unwilling to fight and has suggested that the only course left is to make the best possible terms with the allies by direct negotiations, which have been opened by the Bulgarians.

Some of the Turkish advisors in the capital are anxious to continue the defence of Tehtaltia, but that certainly would result in disaster, as the basis of the proposals is that Turkey is ready to abandon Tehtaltia provided the Bulgarians undertake not to enter the capital.

The Porte is prepared to make heavy sacrifices to avoid this humiliation and if King Ferdinand is not too exigent, peace is in sight.

Labor Disputes
Ottawa.—The preliminary estimate of the number of the labor disputes in October, issued by the department of labor, shows that the number of strikes was about twice as great as that recorded during the same month of last year, although there was no material change from the conditions during the previous month of the present year.

The dispute of the coal miners on Vancouver Island continued throughout October, this being the only dispute in which a great number of men were involved. About twenty-one disputes were in existence, ten of which commenced during the month. Upwards of 4,300 employees were involved in these disputes, which caused a loss of about 98,000 working days.

London.—Parishioners of St. Michael's Church, Cricklewood, have contributed 110,260 farthings toward the church building fund.

READY FOR OPENING OF HOUSE

Putting Down New Carpets and Paddling Walls to Deaden the Echo

Ottawa.—The parliament building is full of renovators getting the premises ready for the law makers.

The old red carpet is being relaid in the senate and new green carpet is being tacked down in the commons chamber. Painters are touching things up where bare spots were worn last year.

Speaker Sproule's new chair has been placed and the wall behind it upholstered in tapestry to deaden the echo. The walls of the whole commons chamber have been padded with two inches of felt to kill the echo which speakers have been grumbling about for years.

The Liberal and Conservative whips and Speaker Sproule will be here this week to make necessary arrangements in the seating of the members.

Hon. F. D. Monk will be moved either back from the front row or down the line away from the speaker. Hon. Louis Coderre will have the seat vacated by Mr. Monk.

The new fire alarm system is being coupled up and the chief of the parliamentary restaurant yesterday got in a load of pots and pans.

He states that no matter how long the session, or how late the sittings, there will always be refreshments available for the law makers.

By the end of the week everything will be in readiness for the speech from the throne and the fighting which is expected to follow.

Estimates vary, but it is generally agreed that the session will not last less than six months, and may easily go over a longer period.

ICE-DETECTOR IS SUCCESSFUL
Prof. Barnes Tracing Showing Effect of Land on Microthermometer

Ottawa, Ont.—Professor H. T. Barnes, McGill university, inventor of the microthermometer for detecting ice and land from on board ship, has communicated with the marine department and also sent a tracing of records taken on the Empress of Britain in the St. Lawrence a day or two before the Royal George came up.

The report touches upon the accident to the Royal George and the trace points out the rise of temperature through the traverse, due to the passing of the ship into the fresh and warmer water of the river. It also points out the effect of the coast in sending the temperature down. This is shown even as far up as Quebec.

Professor Barnes concludes: If we can study the effect of the coast line on the river and gulf temperature I am confident we can supply the means to prevent such accidents as happened to the Royal George.

The records taken on the Empress are most interesting and show always the effect of land, whenever the course of the ship took her near to such points as Anticost, Farm Point and Rimouski.

FIXED COMPENSATION
Labor Organizations Want Change in Railway Act

Ottawa.—Representations have been made by the labor organization to the Dominion government asking that in the proposed amendments under consideration to the Railway Act provision be made by which railways will become liable to pay fixed sums for accidents to employees.

It is suggested that fixed damages be paid to widows whose husbands have been killed while still in the performance of their duties, that fixed damages also shall be paid for partial and complete disability.

It is pointed out that while constituting a fixed protection for the men the provisions would also do away with much needless and expensive litigation. So far as the complaints are concerned.

TAXING SEASIDE VISITORS
French Mayors Approve Scheme Which is Most Unpopular

Paris.—Fifty mayors of seaside places on the Atlantic coast of France—including Sables d'Olonne, Biarritz, Arcachon, Royan and other popular resorts—met at the town hall of La Rochelle and passed unanimously a motion in favor of taxing all visitors.

The tax will be imposed in the same way as the "Kur-tax" in many towns in Germany. On arrival every visitor will be asked to sign a declaration as to the probable length of his stay and will be handed a ticket, for which he will be charged in his hotel bill.

The Paris newspapers this evening are already raising an outcry against the proposed impost, which they criticize as a tax on fresh air and sea water.

It is not improbable that the scheme will fall through.

Ban on Church Chairs
London.—A legacy of $60,000 left by a maiden lady to build a church in the Black County is accompanied by a stipulation that the church must be furnished with substantial wooden pews and not chairs.

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

CANADA IS EXTOLLED BEFORE NEW YORK CANADIAN CLUB

Hon. Sam Hughes Declares That to be Prepared for War is the Best Way to Avoid Trouble—Sir Edmund Walker Pays Tribute to Greatness of Canada.

New York.—Assurances of goodwill between the Dominion of Canada and the United States were given at the eighth annual dinner of the Canadian Club of New York at the Hotel Astor, and Canadian citizens of this city, joined by invited guests to the number of 500, toasted "The President," "The King," and "The Land of Our Birth."

T. Kennard Thompson, president of the Canadian Club, was toastmaster. Before introducing the first speaker, Hon. Sam Hughes, minister of militia and defence, of Ottawa, Mr. Thompson read messages from His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, and from Col. Roosevelt, expressing their regrets at their not being able to attend.

Mr. R. L. Borden, on behalf of himself and Mrs. Borden, also sent his regrets that the work in connection with the impending session rendered it impossible for him to attend.

Col. Hughes declared that in all his travels he had discovered that the missionary with his Bible and the bayonet went hand in hand in the promotion of civilization, and the bayonet he added, did not always take the second place.

Great Britain and her colonies, said Col. Hughes, will stand together in the upbuilding of humanity the world over, and they will stand together in strengthening friendly relations with the United States.

The speaker dwelt upon the friendly relations which exist and which, he said, must always exist between the United States and the British empire.

The railroads bind Canada and this country, he said, and make one of the strongest ties of friendship. The aims of the two people are alike and so they will continue to work side by side in perfect amity.

Prof. Willis Moore, of Washington, Ernest Thompson Seton, Rev. Dr. Grant, of Queen's university; David Forgan, Dean Galbraith, of Toronto University, and Sir Alexandre Lacoste all addressed the gathering briefly.

W. T. Robson, of the C.P.R., the first president of the Canadian club in New York, came from Montreal for the occasion and brought along some striking samples of the apples produced in the Okanagan Valley of British Columbia.

Sir Edmund Walker, in his address spoke of Canada as pre-eminently the land of opportunity.

In the extent of our sea coasts, said he, our lakes, rivers and mountains, our forests, our fruits and in the rich harvests to be gained from all we are not surpassed by any country, but we have much, indeed, to do before we arrive at our full stature as a nation.

Sir Edmund gave a few figures to demonstrate the wonderful prosperity of the country. This was due, he said, largely to the immigration which rendered necessary the borrowing of two hundred millions annually in addition to the amounts saved in Canada. This vast amount would continue to come from Britain which was always ready to further legitimate Canadian enterprises.

Canada, he said, was building up an industrial nation, not merely agricultural. The west, naturally, was still largely agricultural, but even there the dawn of the industrial era had broken, and with the expansion of its industries the west would cease to regard the east as unduly profiting from its resources.

Sir Edmund referred to the task of making Canadians the vast number of immigrants pouring into the country, and recalled the fact that it was necessary to use thirty languages to teach the new arrivals English.

The task of making good Canadians was going forward apace, however, he said. In many conspicuous cases the new arrivals had become not only Canadians, but loving and reverent believers in the necessity of preserving and upbuilding the great British empire.

British Empire Trade Mark
London.—The Overseas Dominion Royal Commission, having heard several witnesses favorable to a British Empire Trade Mark, are now receiving evidence showing the manufacturers' opinions on the subject, which is by no means unanimous.

Several influential witnesses declare that an empire trade mark would simply mean an additional temptation to foreigners to place spurious trade marks on their goods, and would also put classes of goods on a common level.

London's New Motor Mart
London.—Motorcars registered in London have increased so much that the local government board has assigned the letters LH as a ninth index mark for registration purposes.

DOESN'T PROTECT FARMERS

Dear living is Partly Due to Manipulation by Cold Storage Houses and the Middlemen

Toronto.—Prof. M. A. Mackenzie, chairman of the special committee appointed by the Board of Trade of Toronto to investigate the high cost of living, presented the committee's report. Among causes assigned for the growing cost of necessities are the great increase in gold production, the enormous expenditures on preparations for war, the migration to the cities, the duties on foodstuffs which enable dealers to corner the domestic supply, the apparent elimination of competition in many lines, the multiplicity of retail stores, the poor shipping facilities for produce coming in to Toronto, the absence of adequate markets here and the prevailing high rents for stores and houses. Speaking of the tax on foodstuffs the report says:

This tax was introduced to protect the Canadian farmer in times of Canadian scarcity and to be inoperative in times of Canadian plenty, but the development of the packing and canning industries, coupled with the growth of cold storage facilities has made it possible today for a group of men to entirely control the prices at which our farmers must sell certain produce, nearly all the possible buyers being in the group, and also to maintain the price at which the consumer must buy the same products up to the level of the foreign price plus freight, plus duty.

RANCHING INDUSTRY OF WEST
Recommendations Made to Commission at Meeting in Lethbridge

Lethbridge.—At the meeting of the Ranching Commission held here recently, W. F. Stevenson, live stock commissioner for the province of Alberta, made some very trenchant recommendations regarding the ranching industry in Alberta, which were very favorably received by the meeting.

One of the most important was in connection with the size of the leases which he urged should be small and not more than ten sections. His recommendations have been prepared with the approval of the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Duncan Marshall, and were submitted in detail to the commission.

Chairman Pope declared during an announcement at this session, that the cattle men cannot have everything, the sheep men have certain rights.

W. C. Ives, for the wool producers pointed out that the time has come when the sheep men have to be considered from the fact that where five hundred ranchers interested in the cattle industry, there are 20,000 men in Southern Alberta mostly farmers, who are interested in sheep, because it is being found that the sheep industry and farming go hand in hand.

Regarding the number of cattle any lease should carry, the meeting recommended that 40 should be the minimum where part of the land is cultivated and 25 to the acre carried where there is no land capable of cultivation. The meeting recommended that bounties be paid as follows:

For timber wolves: old, $50; young, $25; coyotes, old, $5; young $2.50.

Manitoba Sunday School Association
The Sunday School Convention at Brandon on 20-22 inst., bids fair to eclipse all former efforts of the Association.

Rev. W. A. Brown of the International Sunday school staff, Chicago, is said to have no superior on the Sunday School platform in America. He speaks several times during the convention.

Prof. L. L. Henry of Chicago will have full charge of the musical portion of this great gathering. All who heard him at the Portage gathering were delighted.

Mr. Henry will speak on "How to learn new hymns and to sing the ones we do know."

In addition to these outside helpers a host of Provincial experts, both ministers and laymen, will give of their best for the benefit of those fortunate to be present. Some of them are:

Rev. R. L. McTavish, Prof. Osborne, Rev. C. Morgan, Rev. A. N. Simpson, Rev. A. N. Marshall, and Prof. Bland, Winnipeg; Mr. T. H. Patrick, Souris, Rev. J. W. Little, Shell Lake; Prof. McKee, and Mr. A. White, Brandon; Miss Helen Palk, Winnipeg; Rev. R. O. Armstrong, Virden; Rev. T. G. Bethel, Crystal City; Messrs. R. H. Radcliffe, Bagot, John Holland, Dugald; W. H. Thompson, Portage; and several others.

Besides speaking on the call of the Sunday school to the church today, Dr. Bland will conduct the installation service.

The convention offers an unusual opportunity to Pastors and lay workers to receive inspiration and practical help.

WOMEN M.P. IN LONDON
Represents Parliament Where Her Sex Talk Less Than Men

London.—Miss Tekla Hultin, doctor of arts of Helsinki University, and M.P. for the Finnish constituency of Viborg for the Finnish constituency of Viborg on a visit to London.

"I was in the house of commons and felt strange behind that grille," she said. "You see, there are fourteen ladies in the Finnish parliament—and we are on the best of terms with the men. The statistics prove that the women members of our parliament speak less frequently than the men."

With us no one is allowed to speak more than two minutes unless he mounts a tribune. We think that being perched up there he or she will not be so comfortable and therefore will be brief."

Doctor Hultin is on the committee of finance—a kind of female assistant to the Finnish Lloyd George, she said; but then the work is not really strange to us. Go into the banks of Finland and you will see that the cashiers are women, even in the Bank of Finland itself, though the chief cashier there is a man.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VIII.—FOURTH QUARTER FOR NOV. 24, 1912

Text of the Lesson, Mark ix, 1-13. Memory verses, 9, 10—Golden Text, Luke ix, 47 (R.V.)—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson, like the last, is recorded by Mark. It was the one occasion on which the glory which was always in Him was allowed to shine through in this particular way. In the tabernacle and in the temple the glory of God was always in the holy of holies above the mercy seat, between the cherubim, but the veil concealed it—the veil which was rent in twain from the top to the bottom in the midst when He died and which, we are told in Heb. x, 20, represented His flesh or body. John says that the word was made flesh and tabernacled among us, and we beheld His glory.

As he makes no record of the transfiguration, possibly he refers to it in this saying, as well as to His whole life on earth. Peter undoubtedly refers to the transfiguration when he says: We made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and were eyewitnesses of His majesty, for he mentions the holy mount and the words from the Father (John i, 14; II Pet. i, 18-19).

In connection with the coming of Christ in glory which He mentioned in last week's lesson He said that some of those who stood there would not taste of death till they had seen the kingdom of God come with power and the Son coming in His kingdom.

Then after six intervening days, or as Luke says, about eight days, He took Peter and James and John into a high mountain, apart by themselves, and as he prayed He was transfigured before them. It seems to me that the wonder was not that the glory now shone through the veil of His flesh, but that it was always there, yet concealed. But it was, as to His whole life, the time of His appearing as one to us, sin excused (Heb. ii, 14).

His face did shine as the sun, and His raiment was white and glistening, shining, white as the light, white as snow. When Moses came down from the mount the skin of his face shone so that he had to wear a veil while he talked with the people (Ex. xxxiv, 29-35). That must have been reflected light. He did not wear the veil when he went in to talk with the Lord and possibly only after he had been talking with the people. Stephen's face seems to have reflected something of the same light (Acts vi, 15). How wonderful the statements concerning us in Matt. xlii, 43; I John iii, 2. Consider for a little these two men from heaven who are talking with Jesus and whom the three favored disciples saw and seemed to know, for Peter mentions them by name.

It was over 1,400 years since Moses died and was buried on Mount Nebo (Deut. xxxiv) and perhaps 900 years since Elijah was taken from the side of Elisha on the east of Jordan by a whirlwind and horses and chariot of fire (II Kings ii), yet here they are, alive and well and recognized, as no doubt we shall know all in the glory without introductions. They talked with Jesus about His decease, which He should accomplish at Jerusalem (Luke ix, 31).

By virtue of that atoning death they and all the redeemed from Abel onward had enjoyed centuries of bliss, as it were, on a promissory note now about to be paid. None are in glory nor ever can be except by virtue of that precious blood in due time shed on Golgotha. It is the blood that maketh atonement, and without shedding of blood there is no remission of sins (Lev. xvii, 11; Heb. ix, 22). The disciples were heavy with sleep (Luke ix, 32), and so it was also in Gethsemane. Are we not all in a measure asleep to the great things of God? How often we talk as foolishly as Peter, who suggested the three tabernacles, not knowing what to say.

That is a good word for us. Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light. (Eph. ii, 14). As Peter spoke a cloud overshadowed them and a voice came out of the cloud, saying: This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye Him. And they saw no man any more save Jesus only with themselves (verses 7, 8; Matt. xxvii, 5-8). To Him give all the prophets witness, and so it must be Jesus only. See now the kingdom in miniature—the Lord Jesus glorified and with Him the risen saints represented by Moses and the translated saints represented by Elijah. The three disciples may represent all Israel made righteous and the multitude at the root of the hill the people to be blessed when the kingdom comes.

Blessed are all who see the glory of His kingdom, endeavor now to walk worthy of it and live to hasten it. As they came down from the mount He charged them to tell no one of the wonders they had seen till the Son of Man should be risen from the dead, but just what that saying meant not one of them could tell (verse 10), for they did not believe that He was to die. They remembered some of the last words of Malachi concerning Elijah and spoke of them, and Jesus indorsed them and said that they would surely be fulfilled, but that there had been already a fulfillment in John the Baptist.

Better Than a Bond Issue
Calgary, Alta.—A proposal being advocated by Mr. R. H. Bennett, Calgary's popular representative at Ottawa, with a view to increasing the school funds of the West, is receiving much favorable comment. The idea is to require the Canadian Pacific Railway to pay taxes on its millions of acres of unsold lands through the West, the resulting revenue to be applied to the school funds. That steps must be taken in any case to maintain a proportionate increase in the school funds corresponding to industrial and population growth is generally admitted.

TURKISH CAVALRY IN CONSTANTINOPLE ON THEIR WAY TO ADRIANOPLE

A SEASONABLE GIFT.

Chas. A. Padley has made a generous and useful offer to Gleichen.

Mr. Padley has been connected with the Pioneer Meat Market for several years and within a couple of months expects to leave Gleichen and make his home in California as he believes the climate will be beneficial to his health. He has made arrangements to dispose of his interests in Gleichen, but realizing that his business here has resulted most profitably, has determined before his departure to show his appreciation by making a presentation that will be lasting and of general advantage.

After considering the subject sincerely he has requested the CALL to state that he will give $250.00 for the erection of a concrete water fountain for the use of man and beast.

However, he would like one or more generously inclined Gleichenites to join him and advance a similar amount and the town to supply the water.

Mr. Padley's idea is to erect at some convenient point in town a concrete fountain, that would in appearance be something that every citizen would be proud of. The highest point of the fountain would be so arranged that people could obtain a drink at any time, a little lower the farmers and ranchers can water their horses and lower still a dog can quench his thirst.

Thus it is seen Mr. Padley's ideas are humane in a degree that too frequently is not given so practical a demonstration in these parts.

Let us sincerely hope that Mr. Padley's generous offer will result in all that his thoughtfulness in this direction intends.
